

No Square Theatre has established an IMMUNIZATION REQUIREMENT in line with accepted public health policies.

Performers in rehearsals have a lot of physical contact-- holding hands, passing props, singing in one another's faces, etc. This pretty much guarantees that they'll be sharing bugs, both the microscopic variety and even the creepy-crawly variety. Please understand that we make every effort to protect the health of our cast and creative staff, and this immunization policy, along with hand washing, staying home when sick, not sharing costumes, etc., are all a part of that.

For children with medical exemptions, the physician's written statement should be submitted. There are no other exceptions.
